

Florida data prove: Super Utilizer Solution reduces costs

Program Overview

LifeShare's Super Utilizer Program is designed to improve quality and reduce costs for individuals with complex needs and high health system use. Through a data-centric, person-centered and truly localized community based approach, the program complements existing case management operations. Super Utilizers are referred to the program by their care managers.

The objective is to address social aspects affecting health outcomes that drive frequent, intense and extended utilization of high-cost services, including poorly controlled chronic physical health conditions, co-occurring behavioral health disorders and social barriers.

The Result

Super Utilizer Solution was introduced to a defined Florida Medicaid population in October 2016 as a pilot program. By the end of August 2017, 119 plan members had been referred and had become engaged. The outcomes shown here make it evident that this program succeeds at improving member healthcare while lowering plan costs.
