History

Promoting “Real Life for Real People” since 1996, LifeShare creates and delivers community-first solutions for people with complex needs.

LifeShare began as a pioneer in the Shared Living and community services movement. Transitioning people with intellectual and developmental disabilities (IDD) from institutions and facilities to community-based living, has been at the forefront of LifeShare’s mission for more than 20 years.

LifeShare Today

As a subsidiary of Centene Corporation, LifeShare develops and delivers person-centered solutions for people with IDD and others with complex needs through managed care, state, and health organizations.

LifeShare continues to be a direct service IDD, mental health, and child welfare provider in multiple states. LifeShare also offers educational programs for children and adolescents with emotional and behavioral needs.
